Audio One

When we were planning our new condo in Governor's Hill on Yonge St., we wanted a new stereo system and large screen TV with a few bells and whistles. We were referred to Anthony of Audio One. Not only does he know the business inside out, he is pleasant to deal with and serves a good cappuccino. He helped us chose our components, came to the apartment while it was under construction, installed some wiring on the fly that the developer forgot to do and did what he said he would do, when he said he would do it. He listened to what we were after and didn't try to sell us more than we wanted. A few months before the move in date, we reviewed the components selected and Anthony pointed out that one of the components came down in price and actually reduced our contract.

Anthony and Audio One are pros in a field full of wannabees.
